

Armando Talancon

August 27, 1961 - August 13, 2017

A life-long Cubs fan, he never gave up hope and last year his dreams came true with a World Series win! But really a sports fan, he grew up playing and loving soccer, as his father had passed on to him, and something he passed along to all his boys. Not sure how he would prioritize next – football or hockey but he seemed to have time and energy to put into anything having to do with a good game.

Whether a barstool neighbor, a coworker, or a stranger, Armando was always fast to strike up a conversation. He was quick to introduce himself to someone, and he didn't shy from getting to know them. Always open to forming quality relationships, his optimistic views, quick wittedness, and caring demeanor always made any moment better. Most of us have many acquaintances or few great friends. Instead of knowing many people shallowly or few people deeply, Armando had the rare ability to know many people fully. He had many friends, all close, and most considered family. He will be missed by all, but more importantly, remembered.

A truer and more honest friend you could never find. You always knew where you stood with him. His radiant smile and oft-irreverent sense of humor endeared him to everyone. Armando held friends in very high regard, and he displayed it daily to all those fortunate to have been graced with his friendship. And when he considered you to be beyond a friend, and called you “family”, that was an honor he did not bestow upon everyone. And it meant the world to be called that by him. He will be missed beyond words.

“ Too soon, my friend. Great times together at Loyola and our fraternity, and then later at Illinois law school. Condolences and best wishes to the family. Truly an awesome guy.

“ I just learned of Armando's passing. He had a smile that lit up a room. His spirit was as untamed as his hair. He will be greatly missed. Prayers to his family. As Armando would say " Don't cry because it's over , Smile because it happened."

“ What great times we had at Loyola. He was not only a fraternity brother but also friend who was always around to help or to lighten up the moment. We went our separate ways after Loyola but the memories feel like it was yesterday. My condolences to his family.
