“ Heidy and I became much better friends as adults than we had been growing up. Once she moved to Chicago (where I already was) she became my best buddy. We lived near each other, hung out together, and shared the drive back to OH to visit our folks many many times. We shopped together, laughed together, and sometimes cried together. We color sorted our M & M's together, and emptied enough cereal boxes into any containers we could find to get the free Monopoly game with wooded houses together (we didn't have to buy cereal for months! LOL). She was a super Aunt to my kids and we remained friends even after I left Chicago where she stayed and built a wonderful career as a TESL Teacher in the Chicago Public School System. Love you always, Sis!
