“ Singer Kanye West sat in the front row, drawing more attention from photographers than any of the models or fashion figures. "I loved it," he said afterward. "Particularly the boots. I like the military-style boots." Westwood received a standing ovation and seemed to bask in the attention like a queen acknowledging her adoring subjects. But before the show, she spoke to several reporters in stark terms about the environmental disaster facing the planet if climate change is not controlled. She predicted widespread hardships throughout much of Africa and Asia and other parts of the world.

“ My heart immediately beat faster by Saint Laurent's work at Dior. One of my favorite photos of all time is Richard Avedon's shot of Dovimo holding court with prancing elephants (at the Cirque d'Hiver) in that long drink of a black gown and contrasting swath that fell to the floor--Saint Laurent's first dress for the esteemed house. Need I say more?

“ My condolences to the family of Sally Ann Bianchi. I don't know you personally but I know how it feels to lose a dear loved one to death. Take comfort in knowing the Bible tells us soon death will be swallowed up forever. Isaiah 25:8 "And He (God) will actually swallow up death forever and the Sovereign Lord Jehovah will certainly wipe the tears from all faces."

“ Sally and Ray were our neighbors who became the dear friends next door. They made Easter baskets for our children, saved us room near the pool at the Elks, sat out many summer nights visiting and enjoying the sounds of the children on Glenlake, helped me w/motherly advise and raised wonderful children of their own. We will always remember Sally and Ray as the best and know that God holds them now.
